Cybersecurity Job Description

Get in touch with qualified and desired cybersecurity candidates

Every good hiring process starts with a good understanding of the position and the profile, you are looking for. The ability to outline the level of responsibility, stakeholders, and context, increases your chances of finding the right match. We can help you on your way.

Balancing information is key, as a long list of responsibilities may question most cyber talents' ability to succeed. Knowing common pitfalls, we assist companies in developing a job description that goes beyond traditional job ads to capture the interest of the intended candidate.

A good description is not all about the position, but equally about sharing your company's story, mission, and people behind it. Understanding your needs, we help ensure a 360-degree description of your company and the position*.

What do you get?

- Description of your company targeted cyber talents
- Description and analysis of the cybersecurity role including professional and personal qualifications
- Advice on typical role definitions, acronyms, and relevant certifications in cybersecurity

* Requires the availability to interview relevant stakeholders of the individual position
